

Alitrip Enters Into Content Subscription Agreement with Travelport

6 July 2015

Hangzhou, People's Republic of China Travelport (NYSE:TVPT), a leading Travel Commerce Platform providing distribution, technology, payment and other solutions for the $8 trillion global travel and tourism industry, today announces a new content and data partnership agreement with Alitrip (www.alitrip.com), the online travel platform of the Alibaba Group.

With this partnership, Alitrip will have access to Travelport's pricing and availability data to support its own fare and shopping platform, as well as the use of Travelport's suite of flagship shopping products: ePricing and Search Control Console, which will improve Alitrip's content richness and operational efficiency.

This partnership agreement also enables Alitrip to expand their merchant and customer base outside of mainland China, working with Travelport and Travelport enabled agencies. On the other side of the equation, Travelport's connected agents and partners will benefit from having a simpler access to the growing demand from mainland China by participating on the Alitrip platform.

Zheng Zhou, General Manager of Alitrip's Transportation Business Unit said: "We are impressed with the quality of Travelport's content feed which supports our online platform. With this partnership we can now have a more efficient way to engage the wider agency community and bring them onto the Alitrip platform. This will provide our users with the best fare options."

Mark Meehan, Managing Director, Asia Pacific, Travelport, described the agreement: "We are delighted to have Alitrip as our newest online partner. Travelport has led the development of technologies that support online travel platforms such as Alitrip. We are excited to work with the most successful name in e-commerce and help bring that same success to online travel commerce."
