19 November 2015

Travelport (NYSE:TVPT), a leading Travel Commerce Platform, has again been recognised for its industry leading point of sale technology, Travelport Smartpoint, this time winning the Innovation Award at Travel Magazine's Travel Awards in Belgium. Travelport beat competition from four other nominees to win this prestigious accolade.

This year's award ceremony was held in Antwerp's most famous and historic town square, the Groenplaats, and recognised the top hospitality providers in Belgium. The event was hosted by Robrecht Willaert, director and editor-in-chief of Travel Magazine Belgium. The award rounds off a fantastic few weeks for Travelport in the Benelux after its win of the Innovation Award at the Dutch Travel Industry Congress last month.

Commenting on the reasons behind awarding Travelport this accolade, the judging panel recognised: "The huge functionality for the travel and tourism industry in general through Travelport Smartpoint and the innovation of the technology solutions offered including 'branded fares and ancillaries'."

Marco van Ieperen, Travelport's Managing Director for the Benelux commented: "We are delighted to have scooped such a coveted industry award in recognition of our industry-leading technology for travel agents. This award is testament to our travel agency customers who have adopted Travelport Smartpoint and our colleagues at Travelport who work hard to help our customers grow their businesses.
