

Travelport and Atrápalo sign multi-year renewal agreement

28 March 2017

Travelport (NYSE:TVPT), a leading Travel Commerce Platform, has announced a multi-year renewal agreement with long-standing customer, Atrápalo, which sees the Barcelona based online travel agency (OTA) continue to access Travelport's Travel Commerce Platform and connect to Travelport's global travel content. Urban and vacation leisure OTA, Atrápalo welcomes, eight million visitors to their websites in nine countries including Spain, Chile, Colombia, Peru, Argentina, Panama, Costa Rica, Guatemala and Mexico.

As part of the agreement, Atrápalo will continue to receive access to a great variety of real time, consumer-ready content from over 400 of the world's leading airlines and low cost carriers, as well as over 650,000 hotel properties and 36,000 car rental locations available through Travelport's Travel Commerce Platform. By taking advantage of Travelport's Universal API, Atrápalo can also offer its customers an improved level of detail and choice so they can better compare and understand an airline's full offering prior to making their bookings, heightening the probability for the traveller to book on their site, instead of using the website for a simple price and schedule query.

Ignacio Giral, Founder and Travel Director at Atrápalo said, "We are delighted to continue working with the entire Travelport team. This renewal will further support our international growth as we continue to implement Branded Fares and Ancillaries to offer a world of travel choice beyond rate and availability as a big online experience differentiator to help secure our success in the coming years."

Damiano Sabatino, Vice President, Southern Europe and North Africa at Travelport, added: “This renewed agreement is testament to how our innovative technology combined with the broadest possible choice in travel content help OTA’s like Atrápalo maintain their leadership in their field. We are delighted that travel leaders like Atrápalo continually choose us as their technology partner.”
